

Hepatology in Podcast

A new and easy way to access liver health education on the go

Hepatology in Podcast is a new educational resource developed by Gilead Sciences in collaboration with a steering committee of Australian experts to specifically equip Australian healthcare professionals with insights and guidance for managing liver disease in all settings of care.

This series is hosted by general practitioner, science communicator and presenter, Dr Brad McKay who will speak with a number of experts within the Australian liver disease community including Prof. Jacob George, Dr Jessica Howell, Ms Lucy McDonald, Prof. Stuart Roberts, A/Prof. Simone Strasser and Prof. Alexander Thompson.

Healthcare professionals with a valid AHPRA number can access this series exclusively through the in Podcast app.

Download the app through your mobile app store and register your details at au.inpodcast.com.
